International Journal for the Advancement of Counselling 17: 329–331, 1994.

Contents, Volume 17 (1994)

Volume 17, No. 1, March 1994

International Year of the Family 1994 v–vii
Editorial 1

ARTICLES
R. Jevne, H. Zingle, A. Eng, D. Ryan, L. Hazen & E. Mortemore, Myths and realities of teacher health (C, D, J) 3–17
T.T.E. Vähämöttönen, P.A. Keskinen & R.K. Parrila, A conceptual framework for developing an activity-based approach to career counselling (B, E, L) 19–34
A. Maurer, B. Oszustowicz & R. Stocki, Gender and attitudes to work (D, L, M) 35–46
F. Bemak & J. Timm, Case study of an adolescent Cambodian refugee: A clinical, developmental and cultural perspective (C, H, J) 47–58
L. Wilgosh & J.T. Gibson, Cross-national perspectives on the role of assessment in counselling: A preliminary report (D, H, J) 59–70
P. Griffiths, The development of the first rehabilitation counselling course in Europe (C, F, J) 71–75

Book review 77–85
Authors' addresses 87

Volume 17, No. 2, June 1994

Editorial 89

ARTICLES
A. Kagee & J.L. Price, Apartheid in South Africa: Toward a model of psychological intervention (A, J) 91–99
R.L. Bowman & D. Baylen, Buddhism as a second-order change psychotherapy (A, B) 101–108
C. Barrett-Kruse, Brief counselling: A user's guide for traditionally trained counsellors (C, J) 109–115

Y.J. Katz & A. Ben-Yochanan, Implementation of the Mason, DeMers & Middleton consultation and program evaluation model in an Israeli school integration project (D, G, L) 117–127

F. Akkok, An overview of parent training and counselling with the parents of children with mental disabilities and autism in Turkey (E, G, L) 129–138

H.J. McLeod & F.P. Deane, Confirmation of precounselling expectations: Does expectation valence moderate changes in state anxiety? (D) 139–147

G. Aydin & O. Yerin, The effect of a story-based cognitive behavior modification procedure on reducing children's test anxiety before and after cancellation of an important examination (D, I, L) 149–161

Authors' addresses 163–164

Volume 17, No. 3, September 1994

Special issue: Counseling Implications of the Pacific Rim Economic Boom

Special Issue Editor: Bea Wehrly

Editorial 165–166

F.Ishu Ishiyama & A. Kitayama, Overwork and career-centered self-validation among the Japanese: Psychosocial issues and counselling implications (K, L, M) 167–182

W.A. Borgen, N.E. Amundson, X. Cao, H. Enquan & Z. Xiaochong, Economic change in China: The need for a comprehensive career counselling approach (E, K, L) 183–191

A.K. Das & S.F. Kemp, The human dimension of development in India (D, K) 193–204

M.J. Westwood & N. Quintrell, Economic and social changes in the Pacific Rim: Implications for the counselling profession in Canada and Australia (J, L, M) 205–212

R.C. Page, S. Taffel, K.C. Ruammake & J. Reed, A comparison of Thai and American counselling students perceptions of counselling (G, H, M) 213–223

Authors' addresses 225–226

Volume 17, No. 4, 1994

Editorial 227

D.S. Sandhu & B.R. Asrabadi, An examination of psychological needs of the international students: Implications for counselling and psychotherapy (D, G, H) 229–239

P.G. Kaczmarek, G. Matlock, R. Merta, M.H. Ames & M. Ross, An assessment of international college student adjustment (D, G, H) 241–247

K. Abal & G. Hornby, Perceptions of the educational counsellor's role in Kuwaiti secondary schools (D, L) 249–262

M. Genuis, Long-term consequences of childhood attachment: Implications for counselling adolescents (D, G, J) 263–274

L. Nicholas, Black South African freshmen's experience of first coitus and contraception (G, L) 275–282

M. Ramsey, Use of Personal Cultural Perspective Profile (PCPP) in developing counsellor multicultural competence (D, H, J) 283–290

J.F. Everts & M.N. Agee, Including spirituality in counsellor education: Issues for consideration, with illustrative reference to a New Zealand example (A, J, L) 291–302

W. Drewery & G. Monk, Some reflections on the therapeutic power of poststructuralism (A, D, J) 303–313

Book Review 315–320

Author's adresses 321–322

Instructions to Authors 323–325

Author Index, Volume 17 (1994) 327–328

Contents, Volume 17 (1994) 329–331